- Author: Barbero (Odette)
- Abstract: The multiple causalities of boredom are inscribed in a binary axis, the one of a double relation between subject and object, and between personal and collective history. The subjective data seem often linked to representations and background conditions. If ordinary boredom is grey colored, profound boredom is represented with images of a hyperbolic nature. However, we lay a bet on a positive boredom capable of fighting against both the moroseness and a tendency to sadness.
