- Publication type: Article from a collective work
- Collective work: Anglo-français : philologie et linguistique
- Author: Floquet (Oreste)
- Abstract: This contribution provides new analyses of non-standard verbal forms which present a final graphic mark - c, -k or -g, forms that are found in insular texts and texts coming from the north and west of the continent. In addition to a series of quantitative considerations, the examination also leads to a new interpretation of their phonetic genesis as well as their morphological function.
