- Author: Laranjinha (Natália)
- Abstract: We undertake an analysis of the interhuman relationships established by couples characterised by the impression of bruises on the body. This physical violence aims, among others, to accomplish training, and violence establishes an almost sadomasochistic relationship with interchangeable roles. The violence affecting the body does not spare the characters outside the couple, and seems to be one of the recurrent forms for creating a relationship with the other.
