S'émouvoir de l'injustice Rawls et le ressentiment

- Publication type: Article from a collective work
- Collective work:

- Author: Guénard (Florent)
- Abstract: This contribution studies the place that resentment and indignation occupy in the Rawlsian theory of the sense of justice, and reveals what separates resentment as a moral feeling from resentment as a passion for revenge. It questions the relationship between resentment and principles of justice. It considers the connections between resentment and desire for equality.
