

Classiques Garnier

- Collections
- French literature
- Renaissance
- La Boétie Studies

Les enjeux d’une pensée de la nature comme socle d’un processus d’émancipationL’exemple de Spinoza

- Publication type: Article from a collective work
- Collective work:
Nature et naturel
. Autour du Discours de la servitude volontaire
- Author: Moreau (Pierre-François)
- Abstract: Does a consequential philosophical naturalism leave any room for emancipation ? If nature determines all phenomena in relation to strict laws, including servitude, any form of emancipation might seem impossible or against nature. Using the example of Spinoza, Pierre-François Moreau examines this problem and shows how we can conceive of a nature which leaves room for emancipation in terms of the transformation of individual and collective attitudes.
- Pages: 151 to 163
- Collection: La Boétie Studies, n° 4
- CLIL theme: 4027 -- SCIENCES HUMAINES ET SOCIALES, LETTRES -- Lettres et Sciences du langage -- Lettres -- Etudes littéraires générales et thématiques
- EAN: 9782812435706
- ISBN: 978-2-8124-3570-6
- ISSN: 2262-0427
- DOI: 10.15122/isbn.978-2-8124-3570-6.p.0151
- Publisher: Classiques Garnier
- Online publication: 03-07-2015
- Language: French
- Display online