L'hébergement des nécessiteux au xvi^e siècle De l'hôpital de San Juan de Dios à Grenade aux maisons de la miséricorde de Miguel Ginginta

- Publication type: Article from a collective work
- Collective work:
Pauvres et pauvreté en Europe à l'époque moderne \(xvi^e-xviii^e siècle\)
- Author: Gaignard (Catherine)
- Abstract: In the sixteenth century, the poor made up a significant proportion of the population and were a major worry for the public powers. From 1518, the Cortès recommended the reorganisation of charity. In light of this, we consider two different attempts at assisting the poor : the hospital of San Juan de Doi, opened in Granada in 1537, and the alms houses of Miguel Ginginta, which began to be created in 1580. We focus on the way they functioned and on their evolution.
